

MODJESKA SHED TEARS.

She and Edwin Booth Warmly Deny That Any Trouble Has Arisen Between Them.

An absurd rumor that the stage relations between Modjeska and Edwin Booth were no longer pleasant was emphatically denied by both these great actors to-day, says a New York dispatch. The story alleged that Modjeska was seeking release from her engagement because of "ungentlemanly and unchivalrous conduct" on the part of Mr. Booth, and that the necessary papers were being drawn up. The great actress was driven to genuine tears when asked about the matter. "All the stories told about my difficulties with Booth are lies, cruel, malicious lies. A more gentle, loyal, kind-hearted co-worker I have never met. I admire him too much ever to have uttered such statements." Mrs. Modjeska looked her hands nervously and considered for a moment. "The story about my husband, the count," said she, "is also untrue. He is in California. So you can see that the effort to bring him into the affair is absurd. As to the statement that I am drawing up papers in a lawyer's office, it is just like all the rest. I am untrue. I have never addressed a single complaint to anybody. Why should I? I am on the very best of terms with Mr. Booth. As I said, I admire him, and his conduct to me has always been what his conduct to everybody is and always will be—that of a gentleman."

Modjeska was weeping, but made one more effort. "As for my cutting Barrett out of my little fellow, believe me I never said anything of the sort. The story is a shock to me. It comes like a thunder-bolt, absolutely unexpected. It is to be stamped as a cruel calumny. I have hurt me half as much as it hurts Mr. Booth, and it is for that that I am sorry. I can say no more; I am too utterly grieved."

With that Mrs. Modjeska rushed from the room.

Both she and Booth have sent letters to the papers declaring that there was not a word of truth in the statements made. Mr. Booth insisted that there had not been any disagreement or unpleasantness of any kind whatever between him, Modjeska and himself.

An Unexplored Section.

Demersville Inter Lake: I. J. Ames and Joseph Shaffer returned last week from a hunting and prospecting trip up the Big Fork, into a section of which very little is known outside of the Indians and a very few white men. Their route from this place was to the head of Flathead lake, thence up the Big Fork to Swan lake, a distance of some fifteen miles; then, after passing through a magnificent belt of timber several miles in extent, they came to a chain of meadows containing from 50 to 600 or 1000 acres each. These meadows continue along the old Indian trail a distance of perhaps 75 or 100 miles, and they claim that thousands of tons of hay can be put up every year. The soil is a black loam from one to fifteen feet deep, and all along the route pine, fir and cedar are found from two to four feet in thickness, straight as an arrow, and with no limbs for 100 feet. Their course was in a southeasterly direction, and they say this wonderful country is very rich in resources. Game of all kinds is so abundant that they could feast on dainty birds and rare game at every meal, using bacon only as an entree. They saw signs of survey parties but of course did not know for what syndicates they were working. This section only adds to the many inexhaustible resources tributary to the Lake country.

HOW CAN THE LONG

BE THE SHORT

A line may be a very long one and yet be the shortest between given points.

For instance, the shortest line between St. Paul, Minneapolis &amp; Manitoula, via the Great Northern, is over 3000 miles of road, magnificently equipped and managed.

It is one of the greatest railway systems of this country; for the same reason it is the traveler's favorite to all points in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana.

It is the only line to Great Falls, the future manufacturing center of the Northwest; to the fertile free lands of the Milk River Valley; and offers a choice of three routes to the coast. St. Paul is the shortest line between St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Winnipeg, Crookston, Moorhead, Casselton, Glyndon, Graton, Fargo Falls, Wahpeton, Devils Lake, and Butte City. It is the best route to Alaska, China and Japan, and the journey to the Pacific Coast, Vancouver, Tacoma, Seattle, Portland and San Francisco will be remembered as one of the most delightful of a lifetime.

To view the magnificence of nature; to revive the spirit; to restore the body; to realize the dream of the home-seeker, the gold-seeker, the toiler, or the capitalist, visit the country reached by the St. Paul, Minneapolis &amp; Manitoula Railway, Write P.
